COMMUNITY BENEFITS*

Every day, we give back to our communities in the form of free health care, donations, prevention and wellness activities, and subsidized programs that we choose to operate at a loss simply because they are needed. We also pick up the cost of numerous services that Medicare, Medicaid and other government-sponsored programs fail to cover.

OUR SERVICES

Adventist Health is a not-for-profit, faith-based health care system headquartered in Roseville, California, just east of Sacramento. Affiliated with the Seventh-day Adventist Church, our facilities are located throughout California, Hawaii, Oregon and Washington. They include:

- 17 hospitals with more than 2,800 beds
- 25 rural health clinics
- 14 home care agencies
- Numerous clinics and outpatient facilities
- Three joint-venture retirement centers, with a fourth on the way
- More than 17,500 mission-driven employees

OUR HERITAGE

Words like prevention and wellness are more than the latest buzzwords at Adventist Health. They've been part of our vocabulary since the very beginning when St. Helena Sanitarium opened its doors in 1878 in California's picturesque Napa Valley. While the Victorian-style sanitarium has long since been replaced by stucco walls housing the latest medical technology, patients still seek out the same distinctive blend of Christian caring and medical expertise offered in all of our facilities.

Today, our system is part of a broader health care community that circles the globe. Sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist Church, this network includes 160 hospitals and nearly 500 clinics, nursing homes and dispensaries worldwide. Though separated by geography, all share the same vision to treat the whole person – mind, body and spirit.

OUR COMMITMENT

So why choose Adventist Health? As a not-for-profit organization, every dollar we make stays where it should – in our communities. Our earnings never land in shareholders' mailboxes. Instead, they are used to enhance patient care, expand hospital programs and build new facilities – to make life better for those we serve.

We've been doing just that in dozens of communities up and down the West Coast – in some cases for more than a century. Although costs have risen, reimbursement has fallen and competition continues to increase, our commitment to these communities is still strong. And we're equally committed to our employees, business partners and members of our medical staffs.

Perhaps this commitment stems from our organization's heritage, which dates back to 1866 when the first Adventist health care facility opened in Battle Creek, Michigan. Perhaps it's an outgrowth of our mission statement, which compels us to partner with our communities to achieve better health. Perhaps it's our dedicated team of caregivers who believe they can make a difference. At Adventist Health, it's all of these things.

FINANCIAL SUMMARY*

As a not-for-profit organization, all net revenue over expenses is channeled back into our hospitals. Unlike for-profit health care corporations, this money does not become dividend checks to investors. Instead, it funds capital improvements, enhanced patient care, new hospital programs and community outreach.
